Note on the data

A. Mandate

1. In its decision 81/34 of 27 June 1981, the Governing Council requested that the Administrator continue to provide data on the magnitude and composition of technical cooperation activities funded by organizations of the United Nations system.

B. Presentation of the data

2. The raw data submitted by United Nations organizations for 2005 were checked for consistency and accuracy prior to processing and presentation in tables 1 through 11. Those tables present both summary and detailed data. Tables 1 through 8 provide data on technical cooperation expenditures, while tables 9, 10 and 11 reflect contributions. Tables 12 through 23 contain historical data on both contributions and expenditures since 1981. Where available, data may also be presented for 1980.

3. Table 1 presents a summary of technical cooperation expenditures by source organizations of the United Nations system, while table 2 presents the same data in the context of the ACC (Administrative Committee on Coordination) programme classification categories or sectors. These tables may be reviewed for broad aggregate information. Table 3 presents a coordinated view of the total United Nations system technical cooperation expenditures by executing agencies, category of expenditure and sector. Two significant features of these reports are provided. First, for each United Nations organization, expenditures are broken down according to category as follows: Regular budget – (A); United Nations system extra-budgetary sources other than UNDP – (B1); non-United Nations system multilateral sources – (B2); bilateral sources channelled through the United Nations system – (C1); and unilateral 'self-supporting' sources – (C2). Second, all expenditures by UNDP, UNICEF and WFP are classified as (B1) expenditures, distributed according to sector. While this may appear to imply that these entities were directly responsible for the implementation of their entire programme, this is not necessarily the case; the aim is simply to preserve tractability and minimize double counting.

4. Tables 4 through 8 provide a detailed analysis of the source organizations, expenditure categories, regions and recipient countries contained in table 3. Specifically, table 4 breaks down regular budget expenditures as described in (A) above, by country and organization. This makes it possible to ascertain the amount of regular budgetary expenditure incurred by a given organization in a given country. For example, a consistency check for the expenditure pertinent to the United Nations can be found under the grand total column 'United Nations' of table 4, which is the same as that shown at the end of table 3, in the far right column of row A. Table 5 provides information on the distribution of expenditure of all non-United Nations system multilateral sources (B2), by country and organization. Generally the total in table 5 agrees with that of line B2 at the end of table 3 and at the far right column of the row. However, there may be instances where a difference exists due to reporting anomalies in the presentation and/or interpretation of the data provided by the source organization. Table 6, denoted by '(C1)' in table 3, reflects the detailed breakdown by country and organization of bilateral resources channelled to the United Nations executing organizations and specialized agencies. The aggregate of table 6 is the same as that in the far right column of row (C1) at the end of table 3. Table 7 captures the detailed expenditure data from 'United Nations system multilateral sources (B1)', also classified by country and organization. The total in this table usually equals that shown, in the right column of row (B1) at the end of table 3. Finally, the distribution by country and organization of unilateral expenditure routed to executing organizations and specialized agencies and back to the contributing countries (C2) is shown by the 'self-supporting expenditures' column of table 8; the total of that column is in agreement with the amount reflected in the far right column of line (C2) of table 3.

5. Table 9 provides data on extra-budgetary contributions to the executing organizations and specialized agencies, organized under the following headings: unilateral and bilateral sources (country or territory and NGOs) and multilateral sources (United Nations system and non-United Nations system). Contributions received by executing organizations and specialized agencies to fund 'self-supporting' technical cooperation expenditures are presented in table 10.

6. The remaining tables contain historical data with varying time periods between 1981 and 2005. Contributions to and expenditure by UNDP, UNFPA, UNICEF, and WFP from 2001 to 2005 are provided in tables 11 through 15. Technical cooperation expenditure, nominal amounts and rates of growth by the entire United Nations system for the period 1981 to 2005 are found in tables 16 and 17. Tables 18 and 19 reflect historical data on regular and extra-budgetary expenditure by executing organizations and specialized agencies. Tables 20 and 21 provide historical data and rates of growth of extra-budgetary contributions to executing organizations and specialized agencies. Table 22 reports historical summary data on voluntary contributions received by UNDP, UNFPA, UNICEF and WPF. Table 23 reflects 2005 data relating to World Bank and IDA assistance.

C. Caveats

7. Use of the data in the present document may be guided by the application of the following caveats:

(a) Scope. The data on expenditure/contributions refer only to those for technical cooperation. The report defines technical cooperation activities to include the work of UNDP, executing organizations and specialized agencies, UNFPA, UNICEF and WFP.

(b) Expenditure coverage. All expenditure data refer to the field programme activities of the entities concerned. All expenditure data are net of administrative, support and other costs. Expenditure data thus refers to the actual amount of resources directly invested in developmental activities, which are classified here and in document DP/2006/38 as field programme expenditure. The only exception is WHO, whose expenditure is inclusive of those other costs.

(c) The World Bank and the International Development Association. In 1998 there was a shift in orientation and focus within the World Bank and IDA. Those institutions would no longer specifically attempt to capture the technical assistance components of their projects. This decision resulted in the introduction of a new lending instrument: learning and innovations loans (LILs). LILs provide structured support for small, time-sensitive projects to pilot promising development initiatives based on a sound development hypothesis, or to experiment so as to develop locally-based models prior to a larger-scale intervention. Due to their diverse nature, LILs are not specifically geared to capacity-building and cannot be defined to be nor equated with technical assistance. In addition to data on LILs, the World Bank and IDA have also provided data on technical assistance loans (TALs), and grants from the Development Grant Facility and the Institutional Development Fund, all of which are included in the current report. TALs are used in the pursuit of one or multiple objectives, including project preparation, capacity building, civil service reform and sectoral development. They are often used as companions to structural adjustment loans to address long-term capacity-building issues that are linked to economic policy reform. All data submitted by the World Bank and IDA for 2005 are presented in a separate table (table 23), which is new to this report.

(d) Contributions – Organizations. Data on contributions by United Nations organizations refer to extra-budgetary contributions only; regular budgetary contributions are not included in the report. Based on this premise, contribution data on United Nations organizations must not be equated with income.

(e) Contributions – UNDP and UNFPA. Data on contributions to UNDP and UNFPA refer to voluntary contributions to regular resources only. In the case of UNDP, cost-sharing, contributions to local office costs, government cash counterpart contributions, funds and trust funds, management services agreements and miscellaneous contributions have been excluded from the total. For both entities, voluntary contributions are not the same as total contributions or total income.

(f) Contributions – UNICEF. Contribution data refer to voluntary contributions to regular resources from governments, the private sector and inter-organizational sources; contributions are not the same as total income.

D. Terminology

8. The utility of the data contained in this addendum can be significantly enhanced by a clear understanding of the terminology employed. The most important definitions and concepts are given below.

9. Technical cooperation activities are activities that aim to promote increasing self-reliance and thus strengthen the conditions necessary for sustainable human development. They include human resource development (education, health, social development); the managerial, technical, administrative and research capabilities required to formulate and implement development plans and policies, including the management and development of appropriate institutions and enterprises; and policy advice. All United Nations organizations reviewed in the present report

(with the exception of the World Bank and, to some extent, the IDA) are considered to engage in technical cooperation activities.

10. Regular budget expenditures refers to technical cooperation expenditures of executing organizations and specialized agencies financed out of assessed budgets (i.e., contributions). They are therefore linked to voting power within agencies. Table 4 in the statistical annex contains detailed data on the regular budget expenditures of United Nations organizations. UNDP, UNICEF, UNFPA and WFP do not have regular budget expenditures because contributions are entirely voluntary.

11. Extra-budgetary expenditures. As distinct from regular budget contributions, these refer to expenditures by United Nations organizations financed from voluntary contributions originating from multilateral and bilateral sources.

12. Multilateral sources are divided into: (a) United Nations system (B1); and (b) multilateral sources outside the United Nations system (B2). Total B1 (see table 3) expenditure comprises organization B1 expenditures and rest-of-system B1 expenditures, excluding the World Bank and the IDA. Organization B1 expenditures fund technical cooperation activities from resources available within the United Nations system: in other words, they essentially represent payments to agencies by other entities of the United Nations system for services rendered. Considerable efforts have been made to avoid the problem of double-counting – counting a payment and/or a receipt twice. Rest-of-system B1 comprises expenditures from UNDP, UNICEF, UNFPA and WFP. Line B1 at the end of table 3 shows total B1 expenditures in summary form, while a detailed breakdown is given in table 7. Multilateral sources of extra-budgetary expenditures outside the United Nations system are referred to in the present document as B2 expenditures; they are provided by outside entities such as regional development banks, the Commission of the European Communities and the various Arab development funds. The essential characteristic of B2 expenditures is that they are passed on from outside multilateral entities to organizations of the United Nations system for the purpose of financing technical cooperation activities in developing countries. Line B2 at the end of table 3 gives a summary account of this category of extra-budgetary expenditure, details of which are contained in table 5.

13. Bilateral extra-budgetary expenditures are also grouped into two categories: (a) non-United Nations system sources (C1); and (b) unilateral self-supporting sources. The former comprises expenditures incurred against resources provided directly to a United Nations organization by a Member State or an NGO to fund technical cooperation activities in developing countries. These are resources made available to the United Nations system by bilateral donors. They also include expenditures against multi-bilateral contributions (i.e., contributions by one country for a specific project in another country), as well as expenditures by a United Nations organization against special-purpose funds managed by it. The term 'unilateral' indicates that such expenditures finance activities within the country that made the contribution to the United Nations system. Unilateral expenditures are thus passed from a particular country to the United Nations system and back to the same country, having acquired a dual character: unilateral because they return to the contributing country; bilateral because they were routed from a country to the United Nations system.

14. Agency extrabudgetary contributions are used to fund extra-budgetary expenditures: one is the income side of the equation while the other is the expenditure side. Extrabudgetary contributions are voluntary contributions, which may be tied to a specific purpose or geographic location and which are divided in two broad groups: bilateral and multilateral. Bilateral contributions are broken down into: (a) contributions from countries and territories, representing funds donated to the United Nations system to support activities in developing countries; (b) contributions from NGOs to the United Nations system; and (c) unilateral self-supporting contributions made by a country to finance technical cooperation activities in that country. Multilateral contributions are subdivided into: (a) contributions from the United Nations system (in essence, such contributions represent an internal transfer of resources within the United Nations system, usually from funding agencies to executing agencies, for services rendered); and (b) contributions originating outside the United Nations system, made by multilateral organizations that are not part of the United Nations system. Examples of such organizations are the African Development Bank and the Arab Gulf Programme for United Nations Development Organizations.

a/ The figures in this table have been rounded and may not agree exactly with those of the other tables in this and previous reports.
b/ WFP reported revised expenditure figures for 1996, 1997, 1998, 1999 and 2000 and 2001.
c/ Although 2003 World Bank data is not representative of technical cooperation per se, it is nevertheless included in this table. See note below.
d/ "Total United Nations system (1)" includes the World Bank and IDA; "Total United Nations system (2)" excludes the World Bank and IDA.

Note: Beginning 1998, the World Bank/IDA does not report technical cooperation expenditure (see "Note on the data" for explanation). This caveat should be borne in mind when using the amounts reported in the column "Total United Nations system (1)" after 1998.
